

Notice of Right of Opt-Out

The terms “sell,” “selling,” “sale,” or “sold,” are defined in the California Consumer Privacy Act as the act of selling, renting, releasing, disclosing, disseminating, making available, transferring, or otherwise communicating orally, in writing, or by electronic or other means, a consumer’s personal information by a business to another business or a third party for monetary or other valuable consideration. We do not sell your personal information for monetary consideration. However, there may be instances where we disclose or share your information with a third party for other valuable consideration. When we refer to “sell,” “selling,” “sale” or “sold” in this Notice of Right of Opt-Out, we are referring to disclosure or sharing of personal information for valuable consideration other than money. You have the right to opt-out of the sale of your personal information. You may exercise this right by submitting a Request to Opt-Out of Sale of Personal Information. You may also opt-out offline by any of the following methods by providing a description of what you need to do to opt-out offline:

Phone: (800) 768-3474
